BRAINSTORMS

There are still a whole bunch of really good folks around Elba. One morning last week we found another of these. One of our paper racks was full of money and a few nickels and dimes vere sticking out or were just lying in the box. One of these fine people (a woman) saw this and became concerned that some one might pick up the overflow of money so she just waited there until some of our staff arrived at 8 a.m. to get the money. You just can't ask for better folks than that!

A couple of us were kidding with the Elba City Council Tuesday night and I must pass it on to you. During the regular session, in walked Leroy Miller with two sacks of fried chicken that had been left over from a Methodist and Baptist joint men's club feed. Leroy got accused of politicing but stilled passed out the chicken. Then the man sitting next to me commented, "This is the only time I have ever seen this council in agreement on anything!" Councilman Ronnie Vaughan was able to point one other case but our wisecracks didn't seemed to dampen their gusto for the free chicken.

The Democratic Committee met Saturday morning and we got only one surprise candidate. Most of those who qualified Saturday had let it be known that they intended to qualify as have a few who have yet to sign on the dotted line.

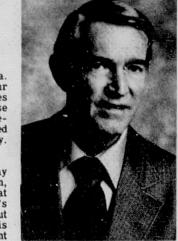

Normally I confine my political comments to this column but one day last week an incumbant asked me, "Don't you think I have voted fairly to everyone during my term in office?" think that at least a few of his votes were not fair and told him . The look on this man's face left me with the firm conviction that he wasn't expecting that answer from ye ole editor. He quickly changed the subject and didn't ask me if I was planning to vote for or against him. This is just as well, cause at this point I really don't know and also consider this as one of the very few private matters we Americans have left - the right

I really enjoy watching politics but Saturday morning I suddenly turned my back to them without a second thought. When my wife is expecting a baby, I am more nervous than she is about the whole thing. When she sent word to me that she needed to go to the doctor, I left in a hurry. But all in all I did quite well - it's just that those walls in the hospital are real good for climbing and I wanted to spend my afternoon climbing hospital

Now too, I have heard women talk about how rough they have it keeping a house and working but they can't fool me anymore. During this week I have managed to work, take a certain amount of interest in two children and get them to school on time. We managed to wash some clothes two mornings before school and still have two or three clean cereal bowls and a whole set of coffee cups that I haven't even started using. Our eleven year old daughter has handled all our cooking, so that must be a simple matter. Our seven year old son feeds the dog and takes out the garbage and picks up some of his dirty clothes, so apparently anyone can handle these chores. Now you women's libbers. I have destroyed the myth.

All reports I get are that fishing is booming. The weather is warm and this encourages the fishermen and apparently the fish. But things being what they are. I probably will just have to observe from the sidelines for a least a couple of weeks. Under these circumstances I must urge anyone having any fishing luck to please give me a detailed report. At least this will help my dream world.

Our front page story last week on the expansion of Kleinert's overstated the case a bit. There is no real excuse for this other than to say that such results are not unusual with stories that are gotten mostly from bits and pieces picked up off the grapevine. Still Kleinert's will be adding a hundred or more employees in the immediate future. A good thing did come out our story however. According to one of the "big wheels" it started some more folks applying for jobs!

1/3 C. soft shortening 1/2 C. sugar 1 Egg 1-1/2 C. flour

1-1/2 tsp. baking powder 1/2 tsp. salt 1/4 tsp. nutmeg (optional) 1/2 C. milk

Heat oven to 350 degrees. Grease 12 medium muffin cups. Mix thoroughly shortening, sugar and egg. Sift together flour, baking powder, salt, nutmeg, and add alternately with milk. Fill muffin cups 2/3 full. Bake 20-25 minutes or until golden brown. When done, roll in 1/3 cup melted butter, then in mixture of 1/2 cup sugar and 1 tsp. cinnamon. (May need more of these ingredients).

These are good, easy and quick to fix for a different breakfast.

PREP SEASON DRAWING TO A CLOSE

The high school basketball season draws to a close this week, and it looks like South-Alabama will be well represented in the upcoming state tournament. The Regional tournaments will be played next week, while the state tourney will tip-off on March 2, at Memorial Coliseum, in Tuscaloosa.

At the present time there are eight (8) class 4A teams from the local area that appear to have a shot at making the journey to Tuscaloosa. Heading up the list is Auburn, boasting a 24-4 record, and Central of Phenix City, with a 22-3 slate. The Tigers have been cruising all season long, while Central umped into the spotlight last week by handing Dothan a 17point thrashing. Also included among the 4A favorites are Ozark (12-6), Tuskegee (16-4), Jeff Davis (17-8), Dothan (16-6), Selma (18-5) and Bay Minette (15-6). In class 3A, two of the top local teams are both in Region 2 The two powerhouses are Ashford (23-3) and Andalusia (20-4) he Yellow Jackets have beaten Dothan and Ozark, two strong 4A teams, while Andalusia is improving game by game under coach Richard Robertson. The two 3A schools are favored in heir area, and seem headed for a showdown in the Regional Evergreen, a Perennial Region I power, boasts a 23-5 ecord, and has won 19 out of their last 20 games. The Aggies should have an easy trip to the state tourney. Other 3A schools given a chance at making the state tournament are Opp (17-5), Tallassee (18-3), Troy (15-11), and Monroe-

South Alabama also boasts several good 2A schools! Probably the finest 2A school around is Headland (22-3). The "Thundering Rams" have not lost to a team in their class, and boast a 25-point victory over the highly-rated Ashford Yellow Jackets.

The team with the best chance to knock-off Headland is Florala. The 19-5 Wildcats made it to the semi-finals of he state tourney in 75, and definitely have a shot at a repeat The top 2A school in the Montgomery area is St. Jude

The Pirates (19-6) also made it to the state tourney las year, and are considered "Shoe-ins" for a return trip! Two other teams with a good shot at pulling an upset and earning a trip to Tuscaloosa are Autaugaville (22-5) and The state tournament could include two class A teams that competed in the Elba Tip-Off Tournament. The duo is, of course, Red Level and New Brockton. Red Level boasts a 23-4 record, and has as much talent as any team around. The Tigers, who have beaten Andalusia and New Brockton, should have no trouble in making their irst trip ever to the state tourney. New Brockton owns a 17-9 record, and are a definite favorite to return to the state finals. The Gamecocks have only lost to one class A school (Red Level), and are led by 6-6 center

New Brockton's biggest challenge could come from Rebecca

The (25-2) King Kong lost to the Gamecocks in the Regional finals last year, but are considered to be stronger his year, and are favored to meet New Brockton in the finals again this year Tuscaloosa are Clio (21-6), Clayton (14-9), Zion Chapel

14-9), and Wicksburg. SOME COACHES STILL MOVING

With spring football training just around the corner, a few schools have made the news by firing their coaches. The biggest surprise came when Mt. Brook axed head coacl Robert Higginbotham. Higgonbotham led his team to a 13-0 record last year, and a state football championship. The reason for Higgonbotham's dismissal was released as "solely Eufaula stunned many local football fans by dismissing head coach Ed Comer. Comer led his team to many successful seasons, but apparently was "too nice" a guy for Eufaula. Coach Larry McCoy resigned as head coach at Athens to accept a similiar position at Huntsville High School. McCo Athens to the 3A state title last year, and is expected to turn things around at Huntsville.

GRID INJURIES DO OCCUR A government survey was released recently concerning the number of injuries occuring annually during the football season, and the results are staggering The results disclosed that 318,000 football injuries occur annually, including 29 deaths last season, alone. Sprains, contusions, and abrasions accounted for 30% of the injuries, while fractures accounted for 21%.

Ten deaths were caused by indirect football causes such as heart failure and heat stroke. The other 19 deaths were directly caused by football action, primarily from head and ODDS-N-ENDS Auburn University golfer Buddy Grandner, from Montgo-
